CLEVERLY SKINNED.

An importation of 1,500 Russian fox skins, lately received in this city, is remarkable for the fact that the pelts are entire, just as they were on the animal in life. In the instance of the Russian fox skins there is absolutely no cut anywhere but at the corners of the mouth. The Russian fox is about one-half larger than the American red fox, and its pelt is highly prized for women's wraps as well as for men's coats.—Philadelphia Record.

One of the foremost men of the turf said to me the other day: "Some rainy day when you are short a subject, just write a few words about the foolishmess of parents and young boys in imagining there is a golden fortune awaiting a three is a golden fortune awaiting a casidy's friends.

Then comes a funny piece of by-play. Cassidy up and says that the "standing start" is better than the muchly advocated "walk and break" style. Imagfriends now say that unless he can do "standing start" the only thing left for the stewards is to secure another and more competent starter. There is how the muddle stands right now.

One thing is sure, Cassidy's work is very ragged at the present time. The man needs a holiday. He has been at the grindstone both winter and summer for four years and needs a freshening up. However, every starter has his bad spells. Caldwell, Flynn, and FitzGerald had them.

Hated by Tutf Writers.

Then again, Cassidy is cordially disson the fame of Miller has served to liked by the turf writers. He ran counaugment the output and to bring a big ter to them from the very first. His crop of cranks. As a matter of fact, system is to repel criticism with a no fewer than seven parents, most of st. Martin's.

St. Martin's has a fast infield in Farr, Ross, Howard, and Ruiz.

McGee stole four bases in last Wednesday's game with Trinity. Isn't he light on his feet?

The games might be started with a little more promptness. Several of them have gone into darkness lately.

no fewer than seven parents, most of them trudging along with their boys by their side, visited the quarters of Trainer John Rodgers, of the H. P. Whitney stable last Sunday.

As in every walk of life, the successes constitute a very small percentage of the workers in the rank and file. For instance, there are at least 2,200 gallop boys working every morning on the Brighton Beach for such an among turfmen. FitzGerald hates Cassidy. The former is now the managing director of the Brighton Beach track. Cassidy asked for a vacation during the meeting there, but the Jockey Club Long Island race tracks. They all hope have gone into darkness lately.
